RE: Ciera Washington v. Walgreens et al
Civil Action No.: 17-cv-2393 (JMF)

Dear Hon. Furman:

Plaintiff's counsel writes to respectfully request that Plaintiff send all payments to defense counsel directly, rather than sending them to me, per the Court's Order. (Dkt. #151). Defendants consent to this request.

Plaintiff is prepared to make payments to defense counsel directly and timely, as stated in Plaintiff's affidavit, which was submitted to the Court on October 2, 2018. Plaintiff is also fully aware that all payments and payment schedules are Court mandated.

As importantly, forwarding payments to defense counsel directly would avoid potential weeks of delays in Defendants' receipt of each payment. I am rarely, if ever, in the New York or New Jersey offices, as I work outside of the office for conferences, client meetings and for other work-related matters. Therefore, all mail is forwarded to me, which typically takes several days to a week for me to receive, so none of Plaintiff's payments would reach me — and subsequently defense counsel — in a timely manner. I am also not available to mail each and every one of Plaintiff's 26 payments to defense counsel for the next 10 months.

Further, my legal representation is limited to the instant litigation only. Therefore, this case may be resolved, decided or otherwise (and my representation would subsequently end) well before the 10-month installment period is completed.

Respectfully Submitted,

Laurie E. Morrison, Esq.
